

Division of responsibilities

The Board has agreed a clear division of responsibilities between the Chairman and the Chief Executive. The roles of the Chairman, Chief Executive and other Directors are clearly defined so that no single individual has unrestricted decision-making powers.

Senior Independent Director:

- acts as a point of contact for shareholders and other stakeholders to discuss matters of concern which would not be appropriate through the normal channels of communication with the Chairman, Chief Executive or Chief Financial Officer;
- acts as a sounding board for the Chairman and serves as an intermediary for the other Directors when necessary;
- meets with the Non-Executive Directors (without the Chairman being present) at least annually and leads the Board in the ongoing monitoring and annual performance evaluation of the Chairman; and
- deputises for the Chairman, as necessary.

Committee Chair

The Chair of a Board Committees fulfil an important role similar to that of the Chair of the Board in respect of that Committee. They should create conditions for overall Committee and individual director effectiveness. The Chair of Board Committees will preside at meetings of the Board Committees, ensuring that the Committee fulfil their responsibilities as set out in the terms of reference in an efficient and timely manner.

Non-Executive Directors

The Non-Executive Directors provide a strong independent element to the Board and a solid foundation for good corporate governance. Although all Directors are equally accountable under the law for the stewardship of the Company's affairs, the Non-Executive Directors fulfil a vital role in corporate accountability. They have responsibility for constructively challenging the strategies proposed by the Executive Directors, scrutinising the performance of management in achieving agreed goals and objectives, as well as playing a leading role in the functioning of the main Board Committees. The Non-Executive Directors should have the appropriate balance of skills, experience, knowledge and independent judgement gained through experience in a variety of business sectors.
